American Legion Post 12
Commander: Darrell Marshall
February 25, 2016

I am in receipt of your letter dated February 19, 2016. I am addressing the fallacies of your letter in their respective order.

1. Not all military veterans are heroes as speciously touted. Many of them acted shamefully when they were stationed overseas. We have the military police to attest this veridical statement. And, where are our freedoms that you supposedly protected, Mr. Marshall? Have you been to court lately? Have you heard about the Bureau of Land Management's (BLM) incursion in Burns Oregon? I can make a ten-page list on this subject. Your untenable ploy of fighting for our freedoms is an odious fraud.
2. My great aunt was a forthright woman. She told the truth. She was well educated and was well informed about the trauma-based-hypnosis hence mind-control methods used to control soldiers in the military. As a medical professional, she had to deal with the mental-illness issues in soldiers of which are common in the military whether combat was involved or not. And, Mr. Marshall, not all veterans are proud of what they did while in active duty. The internet is rife with their whistle-blowing testimonies and anger against this mass-murdering machine. You need to research these matters first before you espouse this obsolete worship of the infallible soldier. It is passé, and you are out of step with the new generation, because, for the first time in history, full disclosure is available to everybody.
3. Now, let's discuss the violent rape of women in the military committed by their perfidious fellow soldiers (the scum of the earth). My brother works for the V.A. Hospital and has to take statements from rape victims in his effort to get them the help that they need. He keeps his reports confidential. However, if you have a security clearance, perhaps he can enlighten you about this huge and appalling problem in the military and its long, opprobrious history regarding it. Furthermore, many of these rapes were, unquestionably, reported to higher authorities of which fell on deaf ears; imagine that. Talk about corruption and crime running amuck within the military. Again, the internet is rife with this information via YouTube.
4. Mr. Marshall, you have proven yourself to be bias in your letter. It is pellucid to see that you are incapable of being a fair and impartial juror regarding such matters. Therefore, you have no credibility whatsoever. You also proved to your reading audience your vindictive nature as well. You are not at liberty to ban me from your building hence property simply because I expressed an opinion contrary to your own. Your unlawful ban can be easily reversed in court via a judicial injunction. If you refuse to rescind your vindictive and unjustifiable ban in writing, then I will take you to court and have it abrogated by judicial authority and it will be placed in the local newspapers.
